

Berea College, Ky.

July 8. 1874.

Wm. Lloyd Garrison.

Dear Friend,

Our commencement is over. I wish you could have seen our audience of 1500, of all hues, mingling without distinction, addressed by speakers of all shades, and facing a choir of white and colored without distinction, and all in the most perfect order and good feeling; You would have exclaimed, "What hath God wrought?"

Your good letter, except the portion that was personal, was read to the school and was highly appreciated.

I thank you for the like ness. It seems to me a very good one. My son said he would send you mine.

Do not forget us in our isolation. Very few in Kentucky are in full sympathy with us; though all parties treat us
with great respect.

The Lord reigns, and the right will triumph in the end.

Yours truly,
E. H. Fairchild.
